In average English, these had all melted in äacitye, the ancestor of the modern English word. [6] The geographical use n area in which use or non -use of is sometimes problematic is with geographical names: significant natural reference points à € "rivers, seas, mountain chains, deserts, island groups (Archipelagoes) and so à € "are generally used with a" defined "article (the Rhine, the North Sea, the Alps, the Sahara, the hebrides). Continents, individual islands, administrative units and settlements for the most do not take an "article" (Europe, Jura, Austria (but the Republic of Austria), Scandinavia, Yorkshire (but the county of York), Madrid). Starting from a common noun followed by May take the article, as in the island of Wight or on the island of Portland (Christmas island comparison), the same applies to the names of institutions: University of Cambridge, but the University of Cambridge. Some names of places include an article, such as the Bronx, The Oaks, The Rock, The Baches, The Harrow, The Rower, The Swan, The Valley, The Farrington, The Quarter, The Plains, The Daes, The Forks, The Village , The Village, The Village (NJ), The Village (OK), The Village, The Village at Castle Pines, The Woodlands, The Pas, The Vatican, The Hygue, The West City End, The West Habut, West previously, ad Example, Bath, Devizes or White Plains. [7] Generally described singular names, the North Island (New Zealand) or the western country (England), take an article. Territorial countries and regions are particularly mixed, most exclude "the" but there are some that adhere to the secondary rules: derivations from collective common names such as "Redom". "Repubblica", "Union", etc.: the Central African Republic, the Dominican Republic, the United States, the United Kingdom, the Soviet Union, the United Arab Emirates, including most of the names full of country: [8] [9] The Czech Republic (but the russian federation (but Russian), Russian), of Monaco (but Monaco), the State of Israel (but Israel) and the Commonwealth of Australia (but Australia).[10][11][12] countries in a plural noun: the Netherlands, the Falkland Islands, the Faroe Islands, the Cayman Islands, the Philippines, the Comoros, the Maldives, the Seychelles, Saint Vincent and the Grenadines, and The Bahamas. Singular derivations from "island" or "land" that hold administrative rights çAAA Greenland, England, Christmas Island and Norfolk Island çAAA do not take a "the" definite article. derivations from mountain ranges, rivers, deserts, etc., are sometimes used with an article, even for singular (the Lebanon, the Sudan, the Yukon, the Congo).[13] This usage is in decline, The Gambia remains recommended whereas use of the Argentine for Argentina is considered old-fashioned. Ukraine is occasionally referred to as the Ukraine, a usage that was common during the 20th century and during Soviet rule, but this is considered incorrect and possibly offensive in modern usage.[14]] [15][16] Sudan (but the Republic of the Sudan) and South Sudan (but the Republic of South Sudan) are written nowadays without the article. Trademark Ohio State University registered a trademark allowing the university to use "THE" on casual and athletic clothing. The university, often referred to as "The Ohio State University", had used "THE" on clothing since 2005 but took steps to register the trademark in August 2019 after the Marc Jacobs company attempted to do the same. In August 2021 Ohio State and Marc Jacobs agreed the high-end fashion retailer could use "THE" on its merchandise, which was different from what the university would sell. Still, the university took almost an additional year to convince the United States Patent and Trademark Office that the use of "the" was "more than ... ornamental".[17] Abbreviations Barred thorn (after ÅÄfric) Since "the" is one of the most frequently used words in English, at various short abbreviations for it have been found: Barred thorn:Å Äthe earliest abbreviation, it is used in manuscripts in the Old English language. It is the letter Å%Å with a bold horizontal stroke through the ascender, and it represents the word Å%ÅÄ/Ät, meaning "the" or "that" (neuter nom. / acc.). Å%ÅÄ=Å and Å%ÅÅÅ (Å%Å with a superscript e or t) appear in Middle English manuscripts for "Å%Åe" and "Å%Åat" respectively. yÅ=Å and yÅÅ are developed from Å%ÅÅ=Å and Å%ÅÅÅ and appear in Early Modern manuscripts and in print (see Ye form). Occasional proposals have been made by individuals for an abbreviation. In 1916, Legros & Grant included in their classic printers' handbook Typographical Printing-Surfaces, a proposal for a letter similar to Å/Å to represent "Th", thus abbreviating "the" to Å$Åe.[18] In Middle English, the (Å%Åe) was frequently abbreviated as a Å%Å with a small e above it, similar to the abbreviation for that, which was a Å%Å with a small t above it. During the latter Middle English and Early Modern English periods, the letter thorn (Å%Å) in its common script, or cursive form, came to resemble a y shape. As a result, the use of a y with an e above it () as an abbreviation became common. This can still be seen in reprints of the 1611 edition of the King James Version of the Bible in places such as Romans 15:29, or in the Mayflower Compact. Historically, the article was never pronounced with a y sound, even when so written. The word "The" itself, capitalised, is used as an abbreviation in Commonwealth countries for the honorific title "The Right Honourable", as in e.g. "The Earl Mountbatten of Burma", short for "The Right Honourable Earl Mountbatten of Burma", or "The Prince Charles".[19] References ^ Norvig, Peter.
